Radiation Hormesis MIT Radiation Laboratory

The Radiation Laboratory, commonly called the Rad Lab, was a microwave and radar research laboratory located at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, Massachusetts. It was first created in October 1940 and operated until 31 December 1945 when its functions were dispersed to industry, other departments within MIT, and in 1951, the newly formed MIT Lincoln Laboratory. The use of microwaves for various radio and radar uses was highly desired before the war, but existing microwave

MIT Radiation Laboratory - Wikipedia

MIT Radiation Laboratory. The early signs of war in Europe in the late 1930s did not initially stir a significant response among the scientific and technical communities in the United States. However, by 1940, the premonition of impending war began to galvanize action. In June of 1940, Vannevar Bush, the Scientific Advisor to President Franklin Roosevelt, along with Karl Compton, President of MIT, and James Conant, President of Harvard, presented to President Roosevelt a plan for a National ...
