Post-modernists see the global media as beneficial because it is primarily responsible for diffusing different cultural styles around the world and creating new global hybrid styles in fashion, music, consumption and lifestyle. It is argued that, in the post-modern global world, this cultural diversity and pluralism will become the global norm.

This chapter turns to the work of Henry Jenkins to first examine how academic thinkers are defining new media and how a contemporary model of cultural studies is using new media in order to challenge the foundations of academic discourse and the institutional structures of higher education. In fact, a central aspect of contemporary culture is the promotion of new modes of knowledge sharing, which often bypass the need for educational institutions.
